To Whom It May Concern

I worked with Edward fellows at the roadhouse in Covent garden for 4 years, Edward was my bar manager during this time and I can't express enough how amazing he was and what professionalism he brought to this role.

Edward had shown great strength in building his team and motivating them through what is an extremely challenging and busy role. Edward was a extremely reliable manager, positive and an asset to our business and loved and respected by all his colleagues from his team to senior management.

In our industry it is extremely hard to find skilled, reliable and trustworthy managers and Edward managed to achieve a very high standard in his performance and manage to coach the attributes from his team.

If you would like me to confirm any of the above, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours sincerely
